Mosquito Prevention Check List

As a general rule, any items as small as a bottle cap or a slop in the soil in the yard that can hold enough water for 3 days will allow mosquitoes to breed in your yard. There are even certain mosquitoes that can breed in overly damp soil. The best thing you can do to protect you and your family from getting bitten by mosquitoes is preventing breeding sites around your property, or hire a professional pest control company to implement a cost-effective program which includes identification of breeding sites and preventive treatments.
